

Contents

Preface ix

1 Introduction: The Astronomer's Chair and Its Fields 1

- An Old Motif 3
- Chairs in Perspective 6
- Image and Object 9
- Representational Fields 15
- At Home, Abroad, and Within 17
- Contrasting Fields 20
- At the Observatory 27
- Summary of Chapters 34

2 Home, Hierarchy, History 39

- Differentiated Home 40
- Interior Navigation 46
- Enlightened Postures 48
- Visible Character 51
- Middle-Class Comfort 56
- Civilizing Comfort 58
- Ordered History 62
- Manufactured Orient 66

3 Mechanical Comforts 73

- Manufactured Mechanics 74
- Patents and Innovation 76
- Professionalized Chairs 79
- "Invalid" Chairs 84
- Wheelchairs to Observing Chairs 88
- Bourgeois Observatories 97

___-1
___0
___+1

Chairs, Bodies, Telescopes	104
The “Comfortable Telescope”	116
Standing or Sitting	122
4 Cross-Legged Astronomy	129
Observing the Foreign	131
Napoleon’s Arab Astronomer	132
“National Postures”	134
Fate and Free Will	136
Undifferentiated Labor	138
Fixed Emasculation	140
Space, Time, Motion	142
Postures of Knowledge	144
Chaired Native, Cross-Legged Self	149
A Science in History	152
A Cross-Legged Astronomer	159
5 Restless Energies	167
Manly Science	169
Racialized Energy	176
Colonizing Flows	177
“No Sleepy Matter”	180
Idleness and Fatigue	183
Work and Waste	185
Hygiene of an Observing Chair	188
Visual Economies	193
Ocularcentric Comforts	197
Armchair Science	204
Return of the Ordinary Chair	212
Conclusion	226
Coda: Freud’s “Analytic Divan”	229
Freud’s Couch and the Astronomer	234
Freud’s Telescope	239
Deep Time Inside	241
Notes	249
Index	000